

Orri's 5 Step Admission Process.

- 1 Contact.

By phone, email or through our online form contact our Admissions Specialist Ivana who will start the process by gathering information, answering any questions you might have and reviewing next steps. Contact can be made directly by those looking for treatment, or families and carers supporting people with an eating disorders, or via professionals.
- 2 Review.

Together we will discuss the treatment programmes, options and fees available at Orri so you can make an informed decision regarding your treatment options and understand the way forward.
- 3 Clinical Intake.

Orri invites all prospective clients to attend an intake day or intake meeting depending on the programme being considered. For those considering Intensive Day Care programmes, a full day of intake meetings with the team to discuss the treatment plan is offered. For those looking at part time & evening programmes, we invite you to an intake meeting usually lasting around 2 hours. Following these sessions, we offer clients a comprehensive way ahead and proposed care plan prepared by our team.
- 4 Physical Health Review.

A medical form will need to be completed along with lab work and screenings. This can be done with your GP or we will arrange an appointment with The Doctor Laboratory. Our medical and admissions nursing team will review your medical information to determine the appropriate level of care that will best meet your current needs.
- 5 Admission.

On completion of your physical health review and acceptance of the treatment plan, we will schedule your arrival at Orri. This process usually takes around 5 – 7 days. Once you are ready, we'll select a date, help you coordinate travel arrangements, and connect you with the program director at the location where your recovery journey will begin.
